

NEW STEP TAKEN
IN LICENSE CASE

First Affidavits Against Indianapolis Photographers Dismissed—Second Set Filed.

UNDER ANOTHER ORDINANCE

Right of Transients to Sell Photographs to be Questioned Under Photographers' Section.

A new move was taken in the license case this morning when the original affidavit which was drawn under the peddlers' ordinance was dismissed and the case was refiled by City Attorney Kasting under an old ordinance which provides that transients photographers shall pay a license fee of $2.50 per day for the privilege of canvassing in this city.

The defendants in the case are Ray Bermerkamp and W. T. White, of Indianapolis, who have been working here for several days. The first action against them was filed before Special Judge C. W. Burkart, but the affidavits today were filed before Mayor Ross. Warrants were issued for their arrest but had not been served late this afternoon.

Mr. Bermerkamp said this morning that he would not be surprised if the second action was placed against him and White and intimated that they intended to fight the case. He claims that they have a right under the laws of Indiana to sell photographs in this city and that the city cannot charge them a fee for the privilege.

The date for the trial will be fixed after the warrants are served and the defendants are arraigned before the city judge.

There is considerable interest in this case as its outcome, if a contest should be waged, will determine largely the validity of the ordinance. The last ordinance of this character to be placed on the statute books in the city building was passed several weeks ago and became effective after the alleged sales by the Indianapolis photographers were made.

It is expected that the warrants will be served on the Indianapolis photographers late today or tomorrow and some action will be taken within the next few days.

Box of Fruits, Jellies and Other Delicacies Being Prepared For Inmates of Soldiers Home.

The members of the Women's Relief Corps are busy preparing a box of fruits, jellies and other delicacies to be sent to the Soldiers Home at Marion. This is an annual Thanksgiving offering with the local corps, and the veterans at Marion have come to look forward for the box each year. Many other posts throughout the state have adopted the custom, and the annual offerings sent to the home are much appreciated by the old soldiers. The box will probably be sent to Marion tomorrow.

CONFERENCE DATE WILL BE FIXED BY WORKS BOARD

Important Matter Will Come Before Councilmen Tonight—Commission Ready for Hearing.

An unusually important session of the board of works will be held tonight. One of the questions to be determined is when the conference between the city officials and the representatives of the Interstate Public Service Company relative to readjusting the electric light rates will be held.

The Indiana Public Service Commission informed Mayor Ross several days ago that it was ready to hear the case. Judge J. L. Clark will preside at the conference to be held here. The meeting will be of an informal nature and the points involved will be informally discussed by the attorneys. The commissioner will be present to offer suggestions which might aid in bringing about a satisfactory agreement.

CONNERS GOES TO STATE PRISON FOR NEW TERM

Alleged Burglar Taken to Michigan City by Sheriff Robertson for 2 to 14-Year Term.

"I'm going back to complete my education," said William Connors, this afternoon while he was waiting at the city jail for the northbound train to arrive. He was recently sentenced for a term of from two to fourteen years in the Indiana State Prison at Michigan City for burglarizing a Reddington store, nine months ago. It was his second time in court for that offense. At the first trial before a jury he was found guilty and was given a sentence of from ten to twenty years. He appealed to the supreme court for a new trial and won the appeal. By securing the new trial he got the benefit of a later law which was not in force when the first trial was held. Connors has already served eight months in the state prison, but that does not apply to his second sentence.

COMMITTS SUICIDE
BY INHALING GAS

John Fitzgibbon, Former Medora Telegrapher, Ends Life at Home of Brother at Columbus.

B. & O. AGENT AT RIVERVALE

Deceased Was a Wealthy Land Owner and Failing Health is Assigned as Cause for His Act.

John Fitzgibbon, aged fifty-two years, employed as agent and operator by the B. & O. Southwestern Railroad at Riverdale, committed suicide late Monday afternoon at the home of his brother, T. F. Fitzgibbon, at Columbus. The latter has been superintendent of the Columbus city schools for a number of years. Mr. Fitzgibbon was the son of Mrs. Anna Finley, of Sparksville, and also leaves a brother, David Fitzgibbon, at Sparksville. For a number of years the deceased was B. & O. agent at Medora but went to Riverdale shortly after his marriage to a young lady there. He was regarded as one of the wealthiest landowners in the Riverdale vicinity.

Fitzgibbon had been in poor health for several years and it is believed that he was discouraged because of his condition. No other reason cannot be assigned for his act. He left no note in explanation. Superintendent Fitzgibbon stated that his brother had been working hard in his office and had come to Columbus for a short rest. Mrs. Fitzgibbon was expected at Columbus today to spend the Thanksgiving holidays. The deceased leaves besides his widow, a fourteen-year-old daughter.

Fitzgibbon took an unusual method to commit suicide. He told members of the family where he was visiting that he would go to his bedroom for a while during the afternoon. After reaching the room he disconnected a rubber tube from a gas heater in the room and connected it with the gas jet. He then went to bed, placing the tube in his mouth. He pulled the blankets over his head.

His body was found by his nephew, Paul Fitzgibbon, aged fourteen years, when he went to the bedroom to call his uncle to supper. Apparently he had been dead for several hours.

An effort was made to keep the news of his death from his aged mother for fear that she would be unable to stand the shock. Fitzgibbon lived in this county for a number of years. He had been employed as a telegrapher since early boyhood. He was reared near Sparksville. His father has been dead a number of years.

SILVER TROPHIES
ARRIVE IN CITY

Three Handsomely Engraved Sterling Cups for Grand Prizes in County Corn Show.

ONE WILL BE ANNUAL TROPHY

Name of Winner Each Year will be Engraved on Surface—Arrangement for Corn Display.

The three solid silver cups that will be awarded to the winners in the county contest of the Corn Show to be held in this city December 1-4 have arrived here and are on display at J. G. Laupus' jewelry store, North Chestnut street. The trophies have attracted much attention and are very handsome.

The largest is given by the Seymour National Bank and will go to the farmer displaying the best ten ears of corn. On the cup are engraved the following words: Annual Trophy for Best 10 ears of corn raised in Jackson county. Given by the Seymour National Bank.

The two smaller cups are also sterling and are given by the First National Bank and Jackson County Loan and Trust Company. The one offered by the First National Bank will be awarded to the farmer entering the best single ear of corn in the contest. The other will be given for the best agricultural and domestic science display. The total value of the cups is placed at $150. The biggest cost approximately $100.

The annual trophy will not become the property of any farmer until he has won it three different times. There is ample room on the cup for engraving the names of the winners. After each show the name of the farmer to whom it was awarded will be engraved on the cup. The name of the winner who holds title to the cup will appear three times. It is not probable that any one corn grower will be able to carry away the county honors three years in succession so that a number of names will be engraved on the trophy. The cup is lined in gold and stands on an elaborated pedestal. The class for which the cups are given is handsomely engraved in broad shaded letters.

Besides these trophies which are given in the grand county contest over $200 has been subscribed and will be distributed as cash prizes. This amount of money will insure a large entry list as the premium list has been arranged in such a manner that each farmer has an equal opportunity to compete with its neighbors. Cash prizes will be given in each township. Ribbons and banners will also be awarded for the third and fourth prizes.

FINANCING MEXICO IS CARRANZA'S BIG PROBLEM

If Uncle Sam will Give Assistance The Question Would be Largely Decided.

By United Press.

Washington, D. C., November 23.—Will Uncle Sam become Mexico's financial angel? This question is the absorbing problem involved in establishing the Carranza government.

That financial help must be given by the United States to Mexico is admitted by officials. The form such aid should take is the principal hitch. High State Department officials intimate that the government cannot appear as principal in securing credit for Carranza. Its moral support, however, is assured.

The modus operandi probably will be as follows: After Carranza's agents in New York have made guarded overtures to financiers for a loan, quiet inquiries will be made of the State Department if such a loan has the approval of the government. Inquiry will be made as to whether the U. S. would back up the loan in case Carranza's government should fall and collection from new administration be made necessary. If agents of financiers receive such assurances, the loan will be made, with bonds of the new Mexican government as security.

That Carranza must secure his loan in this country is regarded as certain. Europe's money markets are not open to him. It is possible he might place part of a bond issue with Argentine bankers. The bulk of the transaction must, however, be handled by New York financiers.

Re-establishing Mexico's financial system presents many difficulties to Carranza. Hundreds of counterfeit issues of money are afloat. Villa has issued millions of currency now valueless. In Mexico City alone there are a score of repudiated issues. Huerta's currency is worthless.

Carranza who has announced that he will establish a gold standard for Mexico, with a new currency system similar to the federal reserve act of this country, but he probably will not be able to do it until a new Mexican congress is legally elected.

Regarding the immense debt burden faced by Carranza, payment will be effected, according to information here, through claim commissions. Carranza will assent to mixed claims commissions to deal separately with each country presenting claims. Assurance by Carranza that he would honor foreign claims was one of the conditions upon which he was recognized as chief executive. These claims total about $300,000,000.

The Mexican mixed claims commission will, it is reported, be composed of representatives of the interested nations, but the U. S. will not officially participate in collection of claims of other nations.

The claims Carranza assumes run back five years from the ousting of President Diaz. No claims for property destroyed and confiscated during that and successive revolutions have ever been paid. This involves lengthy and complicated negotiations before payment of the claims, to establish national responsibility for property losses in the many major and minor revolts.

Solicitor Cone Johnson of the State Department has active charge of the American claims. Many of these have been on file for years, awaiting re-establishment of a stable government from which payment could be demanded. Railroad, mining, oil and ranching interests are the principal American claimants. Americans are stock and bond holders of the Mexican National and other railroads and telegraph companies which have suffered the brunt of revolutions.

Only a small part of the American claims, which now aggregate about $150,000,000, have been filed with the State Department. Others are being received daily.

UNFRIENDLINESS BETWEEN HANLY AND LEAGUE CLAIMED

Former Governor Asserts Temperance Movement Must be Supported by a Party.

Indianapolis, Ind., Nov. 23.—Friends of the Anti-Saloon League pointed out today that although the league shows resentment toward former Governor J. Frank Hanly following what they described as his attempt to stampede the temperance convention here there had not for some time been any co-operation between Hanly and the league in their work for prohibition.

The Anti Saloon League did not welcome the announcement that Hanly would publish the National Enquirer. The league also publishes a temperance paper. The league never has looked favorably upon the work of the flying squadron, which it termed a "personal" enterprise of Mr. Hanly.

There was much speculation here today whether the open break between Hanly and the league, following the defeat of Hanly's effort to swing the state temperance convention for a new political party, would hurt the cause of prohibition in Indiana.

Mr. Hanly argued that a political must be back of the prohibition movement, that both the democratic and republican organizations and prospective candidates and opponents are not favorable to the dries and that if it proved that they were not, then the dries must have a new party to fight for state wide prohibition. At the conclusion of his address, he asked who endorsed his idea to stand.

"Carried away by Hanly's enthusiasm and eloquence, most of the crowd stood," said an official of the league. "However, the convention later put itself definitely on record as against Hanly's new part idea."

Lee Dobbins made a business trip to Brownstown today.

Dr. and Mrs. R. G. Haas returned this morning from Greenwood, where they visited her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Freeman. They also visited Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Tilson in Franklin.

GREECE THOUGHT TO HAVE YIELDED TO ALLIES' DEMAND

Not Believed Entente Powers Will Now Find it Necessary to Use Forcible Measures.

By United Press.

London, November 23—Greece was believed today to have yielded sufficiently to the allies' demand to have obviated the necessity for forcible measures of coercion.

The conclusion was based on an official foreign office denial that Greek ships are being seized or detained by the British or that a blockade of her ports has been established.

If the Athens' government had not at least promised to refrain from interference with the allies' Balkan campaign it is assumed both these steps would have been taken.

Miss Mary Heaton, of Hayden, was here this morning and went to Indianapolis to visit relatives.

SOME INDIANA PEOPLE GET QUICK RELIEF

Hundreds of Indiana people have found relief from stomach and digestive troubles by the use of Mayr's Wonderful Remedy.

This remedy is safe and efficient. The first dose gives results. And the treatment is not long. It has a wonderful record.

Here are the statements of two who have used and proven the merits of the remedy:

CHARLES INMAN, 424 East Chestnut St., Hariford City, Ind.—"Four doctors said they could not cure me unless I went to Fort Wayne to be operated on. I took your treatment. In three weeks I went to work and haven't missed but a half day since."

WALTER SPRAY, 1011 South Second St., Frankfort, Ind.—"Before I took your medicine I suffered a great deal, but since I took the first dose I have not had a bad spell. I feel it is even more than you claim."

Mayr's Wonderful Remedy gives permanent results for stomach, liver and intestinal ailments. Eat as much and whatever you like. No more distress after eating, pressure of gas in the stomach and around the heart. Get one bottle of your druggist now and try it on an absolute guarantee—if not satisfactory money will be returned.

ANOTHER NEW MACHINE INSTALLED IN LAUNDRY

Collar Moulder is Made Part of the Equipment at the Domestic Steam Plant.

Continuing in its policy of making the local plant one of the most up-to-date in Indiana, the Domestic Steam Laundry has just installed a new collar moulder. This machine insures longer life of a collar and launders it so there will be plenty of space for the cravat or tie. When collars are laundered on this machine the tie will slip easily and there will be no rough edges on the linen.

The installation of this machine places the local plant on equal par with the larger plants. The proprietors have just erected a new building on West Second street and much new machinery has been installed. The business of the local plant has been steadily growing since the new building was occupied and the quality of work is better than can be done in the average laundry found in cities of this size.

At least seventy-five Indiana girls with comfortable homes will not get to spend Thanksgiving in them. These are the girls who are students of Western College for Women at Oxford, Ohio. A peculiar regulation of that institution makes Thanksgiving a school holiday and none of the students is expected to go home. On the other hand, the day is celebrated with feasting and fun and the students are permitted to invite in as their guests parents or other members of their immediate family. This is an annual event at the school, for which great preparations are made and between five hundred and six hundred persons annually sit down to turkey and the accompaniments of such a dinner, all of which are prepared by the students themselves. Seymour is represented in the student body at Western College for Women by Kathryn Kessler.

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Andrews have returned from Indianapolis, where they have been the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Will Akins.

"IN RESTRAINT OF TRADE."

One practical thing undertaken by the Vigilance committee was that of breaking up the lucrative trade carried on by Indiana people, with the South whereby the Confederate troops were supplied with provisions and equipment. Governor Morton assisted in this work and aroused the Federal Government to action. The following telegram, addressed to Morton by Gov. Yates of Illinois, is suggestive of his alertness: "I learn by dispatch received tonight that John Grace of Rising Sun, started south from Madison last Thursday with a flat boat loaded with bacon for Vicksburg. Have him stopped at Cairo. It is for southern troops."

PURITY

The ingredients of the food you eat and give your children should be pure and healthful beyond any question.

Various food officials and pure food experts have frequently endorsed Royal Baking Powder as being superior to all other similar preparations, and many of the great chemists of the world, including most of those of official position, have given like testimony.

No other article of food has ever received such emphatic commendation for purity, strength and wholesomeness, from the most eminent authorities, as Royal Baking Powder.

Because Royal Baking Powder adds only healthful qualities to the food is one of the reasons why it is always preferred by teachers of cookery and the medical profession.

AN ECONOMIC ISSUE.

By an unmistakable expression at the polls the voters in Bedford have again endorsed a saloonless town. Bedford has been dry for six years and during that time the citizens have been afforded ample opportunity to decide whether or not they wanted the saloons returned. The dry majority Monday was three times that given in the last option election. The returns are significant and will doubtless be so regarded by both sides.

The temperance sentiment is growing rapidly. The question of whether or not a city or a community is to have saloons is now regarded largely as an economic one. We are giving much attention just now to efficiency in national, state, county, city and private business affairs. In this day of keen competition the individual must prove his efficiency. Questions of importance must be decided quickly and all work must be done rapidly. An intoxicated man cannot give his full efficiency. He may have but a small quantity of intoxicating liquor in his system but his mind is rendered inefficient to just that extent.

Habitual users of intoxicating liquors are without a position. No longer can they find employment on the railroads or with other large corporations where individual effort counts and where each employee is required to give his full quota of service.

Every man has an individual economic worth. He is of a value not only to himself and his family, but to society at large. When his efficiency is lost, even to a small degree, his value as a laborer, mechanic or in any other capacity is correspondingly reduced.

It is in this light that the temperance question is viewed today. The terrible monetary loss resulting from the liquor traffic is appalling to the leading business men of the world. They have awakened to the realization but booze wrecks business. Communities that are dry have benefited in many ways. The merchants get larger returns, the output of the manufacturing plants is increased with increased wages for their employees, and the general welfare of the community is improved.

GREAT REPUBLICAN RALLY

WILL BE HELD DECEMBER 29

State Secretary Henley Announces That Col. E. P. Morrow, of Kentucky, Will be Speaker.

Indianapolis, Ind., November 23—L. W. Hanley, secretary of the Republican State Committee, announced today that Edwin P. Morrow, of Kentucky, one of the central figures in the recent gubernatorial contest in that state, will be a speaker at the state wide Republican rally to be held in Indianapolis on Wednesday, Dec. 29. Mr. Hanley also announced that Congressman W. E. Humphries, of Washington, will be on the program for an address.

"The gallant fight made by Colonel Morrow in Kentucky" said Mr. Hanley, "has attracted the attention of the people of Indiana and the manly statement he issued when it was finally determined that the man who had acted as chief counselor and comforter to Donna M. Roberts had won by a scant margin of about 300 votes has created a demand from Indiana Republicans that he visit the state, is to be satisfied on the day of the Republican state-wide rally." "Mr. Morrow is a great speaker and the Republican state committee believes that it has been fortunate in securing him for an address on this occasion. The Republicans of Indiana know and appreciate Congressman Humphries as he delivered an address before the Republican Union in Indianapolis in 1913 which created a most favorable impression and aided materially in restoring the Republican party in Indiana to its old time power and vigor."

According to Secretary Henley, the indications are that the state-wide meeting to be held in Indianapolis on Dec. 29, will be one of the greatest political demonstrations in the history of Indiana politics. Years ago it was the Republican custom to hold a meeting of this character in Indianapolis during the holidays preceding an election year. This custom was discontinued after 1912 but the Republican state committee, at a recent meeting, decided to revive the custom this year.

Reports are coming into Republican state headquarters at this early date outlining plans that are being made by Republican clubs in various parts of the state to attend this rally. A number of candidates for places on the next Republican state ticket have made arrangements to open up headquarters at the Hotel Severin during the coming meeting.

Farmers say that the crisp, winter weather has checked the spread of hog cholera in this vicinity and with a continued period of low temperature the disease will be entirely wiped out in a short time. The loss from cholera this summer in this vicinity has amounted to thousands of dollars. Most of the farmers on whose land the disease appeared co-operated with County Agent Cobb in trying to prevent its spread.

LINEUP ANNOUNCED FOR

LOCAL FOOTBALL TEAM

Indiana University Stars Expected to Play Against Columbus Team Thanksgiving Day.

A football game of unusual interest will be played on the afternoon of Thanksgiving Day at Schroer's field between the Seymour and Columbus teams. Both aggregations are practicing hard for the contest and the strongest possible lineups are being secured. The local team was organized under the auspices of the Wesleyan Class of the First M. E. Sunday School. Kingsley Brinklow is the manager and has made arrangements for the game. Word comes from Columbus that several changes are being made in the lineup because of the appearance of Voss and Swope, Indiana University stars in the local team.

The following lineup for the local team has been announced: right end, Niehaus; right tackle, Baldwin; right guard, Everhart; center, Voss; left guard, Amick; left tackle, Harris; left end, Hays; quarterback, Swope; right half, Bozzell; left half, Michael or Graessle; fullback, Allen. A large number of substitute players will be on the ground to relieve any of the team who because of lack of practice will be unable to complete the four periods.

J. H. Andrews, president of the Jackson County Loan and Trust Company, has promised to referee the game and Fred Bacon and Claude Carter will be linemen. The umpire will come with the visiting team.

HER ONE FEAR

Appetite So Ravenous She is Afraid Board Bills Will Be Raised.

Louisville, Ky., November 22, 1915.—Mrs. Leon S. Beam, wife of a well-known traveling salesman, who resides with her mother in Bardstown, came to Louisville recently for the sole purpose of expressing her gratitude for the remarkable accomplishments of the new medicine, Tanlac.

She said: "I have been frightfully nervous and so run-down. I was short of breath, and slight noises which did not formerly disturb me, upset my nerves dreadfully. If I had any energy I really didn't realize it. I took little interest in anything, and when those distressing headaches came upon me I was almost frantic. My digestion was bad and I had no appetite."

"Three or four doses of Tanlac made me feel decidedly better. I have used a whole bottle of Tanlac, and am improved in every way. My digestion is better, my nerves are in an excellent condition, and I have more color and feel stronger than I have in two or three years. Really, I have the most ravenous appetite, and my only fear is that my mother will be forced to increase my board bill."

Tanlac, the premier preparation, that brought such quick relief to Mrs. Beam and thousands of others, can be obtained in Seymour at H. H. Carter Drug Co.

SIX BODIES RECOVERED

FROM WRECKAGE OF TRAINS

Heavy Central of Georgia Passenger Train Crashes Into Light Special Circus Coaches.

By United Press
Columbus, Ga., November 23—Six bodies had been recovered from the wreckage at daybreak today and fifteen other persons were unaccounted for as a result of a collision between the Central of Georgia Passenger train No. 2 and a special train carrying the C. P. Kennedy Circus Company.

Fifty of the injured are in the Columbus hospitals. Physicians attended many others with minor hurts at the scene of the wreck. Railroad officials said the passenger trains should have sidetracked for the circus train on the way from Atlanta to Phenix, Ala. Instead the heavy passenger locomotive battered its way through the light circus cars. Within twelve seconds the biggest cars were ablaze.

Several persons were caught under the wreckage and were roasted to death. The four-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Kempf, of Kansas City, was made an orphan by the wreck. Mrs. Kempf threw the little girl out of the window when both exists were blocked by flames. The child was picked up unhurt.

Miss Katherine Rebber went to Sellersburg this morning to spend the day with her mother, Mrs. W. H. Rebber, who is in the hospital there.

Mrs. Anna Cross and son, Curtis, returned this morning from Blocher, where they have been visiting Mr. and Mrs. Phesant and family.

Another window which is interesting and explanatory is found at Loertz's drug store on East Second street. Mr. Loertz has taken advantage of the unusual war prices of drugs to arrange this window and shows how the prices have advanced since the European war began. He shows a bottle of glycerine and a placard tells the new price and states that large quantities are being used in the manufacture of nitroglycerine and explosive shells. Quinine and practically all other drugs are much higher in price now than a year ago.

Distress in the Stomach.
There are many people who have a distress in the stomach after meals. It is due to indigestion and easily remedied by taking one of Chamberlain's Tablets after meals. Mrs. Henry Padgham, Victor, N. Y., writes: "For some time I was troubled with headache and distress in my stomach after eating, also with constipation. About six months ago I began taking Chamberlain's Tablets. They regulated the action of my bowels and the headache and other annoyances ceased in a short time." Obtainable everywhere.

ATTRACTIVE DISPLAYS

Many of Them are Trimmed Appropriately for the Thanksgiving Season.

Local merchants are taking a commendable pride in arranging exhibits in the displays windows and as a result are getting the attention of passersby. With Thanksgiving near at hand the windows this week are trimmed appropriately and a number of them are very unique. Seymour has a number of real artists when it comes to arranging window displays and the exhibits are not only attractive but many of them are original and unique.

One display that has attracted attention this week is at the Hub Clothing Store on West Second street. The window has been arranged as a living room and a wax figure of a man, neatly dressed, is sitting at the table. He has just started to answer the call which has come over the desk telephone on the table before him. His partly burned cigar and charred matches have been placed in the cigar holder. Magazines are on the floor and table just where he left them when the telephone bell rang. The window was arranged by Claude Carter.

Losses You Never Can Recover

A mistake made when you add up a cash sale while the customer is waiting, or an error that escapes discovery on a charge sales slip—these are losses that can never be recovered.

Each mistake by itself may be small—only a few pennies—but these losses in a year's time amount to a good sized sum of money.

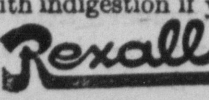

Instead of figuring cash and charge sales mentally, add them with this Burroughs. The machine can't make a mistake. Use it right on the counter as hundreds of other merchants are doing. You can add amounts more rapidly on the machine than you can mentally, and you are protected against the loss of money through figuring mistakes.

Phone or write our nearest office and arrange for a free demonstration in your own place of business.

CHAPTER VIII. Business and Love.

RODNEY'S back was turned on his old life now—there was no doubt of that. The boy was usually the first after Mary to reach the office. Peale was always late. "I say, Peale," Rodney would say, "you're late again. It's got to stop. Here it is 10 o'clock."

"Don't scold, little boss," Peale would answer as he hung up his coat. "That blamed alarm clock—first time in my life it didn't go off."

"I'm afraid that's old stuff," Rodney would answer sternly.

"Holy Peter Piper, you've shaved off your mustache," he ejaculated.

"Yes," said Rodney, grinning. "I'm just beginning to get on to myself. By George, I certainly used to look like the deuce. Do you observe the clothes?" he added, rising and turning round.

"By George, I certainly used to look like the deuce."

"Why, you're getting to be a regular business man. My tuition," said Peale. "You bet your life. Business is great fun," said Rodney. "I thought it would bore me, but it's immense; it's the best game I ever played. What's the news with you?"

"Well, I've been on father's trail," answered Peale. "We only just got back from Buffalo this morning."

"We?" queried Rodney.

"Yes, your father and I," Peale explained. "He went to the Intercolonial in Buffalo. I had all the billboards in the neighborhood plastered thick and forty-eight street stands along the streets to the railroad station. From the time the old man got in until he got out he couldn't look anywhere without seeing 13 Soap. I even found out the number of his room and had a small balloon floating 13 Soap streamers right outside his window. I took a page in all the Buffalo papers, bribed the hat boy to keep putting circulars in his hat every time he checked it and sent him one of our new folders every mail. I came back with him on the train, and when he went into the washroom last night I had the porter say, 'Sorry, sir, we ain't got no 13 Soap, but you can't hardly keep any on hand—it's such grand, grand soap.'"

Another day Rodney calmly said to Peale, "I have plans for our new factory."

"Plans for what? Have you gone dippy?"

"Here they are," said Rodney, producing a large blue print. "Pretty real looking, aren't they?"

"You don't mean you've actually got some nut to build us a factory?" shouted Peale.

"No, no. They are to impress father. Don't you see?"

"Oh, yes. Well, that is an idea," admitted Peale.

"If he ever does drop in to make a deal," said Rodney, "I thought we ought to have something to make a front—something that looks like a plant. And by the way, if we can let it leak out that it's the Andover soap people who are backing us with unlimited capital," went on Rodney.

"The Andover soap people?" Peale inquired.

"Sure! Father's always hated 'em in business," explained Rodney. "His oldest friend, though, is John Clark, one of the big bugs in that company. Clark's got a son, Ellery, that father dislikes because he's such a success in business—always held him up to me as a model son to pattern by. It would make father wild if he thought that old Clark was going to back us."

"Then that scheme ought to be good for a great rise out of father. Say, by the way, I put over a corner on him this morning," chattered Peale. "I arranged for a parade of sandwich men up and down in front of his house. When he got to his office there was another bunch there."

"Isn't it funny, though, that nobody's tried to buy any soap from us yet?" asked Rodney, with some anxiety.

This was a very tender point with the soap company. Mary and Rodney worried over it, and Rodney dreamed at night about it. An occasional small order that might filter in from some remote outlying district or some small merchant whose credit was doubtful, was gazed upon as parents gaze at their first baby.

"It takes time to create a demand," he would say, but admitted that the 200 cakes of pink castle they had bought looked swell in their old rose wrappers. It was a pity they hadn't got a couple of hundred thousand dollars to go after this advertising thing on the level, instead of just for father. Neither he nor Rodney knew how much money they had left.

"Don't ask me," said Peale. "I'm not a financier. Where's our worthy bookkeeper, Miss Grayson?" he added, looking at his watch. "It's nearly 11."

"I'll bet she was here before either of us; she always is. By George, isn't she a corker?" began Rodney lyrically. "Oh, she's all right," agreed Peale indifferently.

"All right! Why, the girls you read about don't mean anything compared to Mary," began the ecstatic lover. "She's got Juliet beat a mile. Every time I think of her I want to yell or do some other darn fool thing, and every time I see her I just want to get down and kiss her shoes."

Rodney said all this and could have said much more, but Peale's mind was on other things.

"If we could only land one hard wallop on father after that Buffalo business," he reflected sadly, still on business.

"Didn't you hear what I said?" demanded Rodney indignantly.

"Not a word," said Peale.

"I was talking about Mary."

"I know you were. That's why I didn't listen," said Peale delicately.

"Speak of the goddess," he added, as Mary just then entered.

She was dressed neatly and appropriately to her new role, distinguishing between the tone of the old Martin offices and this new enterprise into which she had been drawn by such curious processes. To Rodney as always, this morning and every morning, she was a vision of loveliness, a refreshment for tired eyes.

"Ah, you're here!" he said joyfully. "Now everything's all right. It's a great world."

"Don't be silly," said Mary briskly. "This is a business office."

"By George, Mary," began Rodney again.

"Miss Grayson!" corrected Mary.

"By George, Miss Grayson, you do look simply stunning. You're twice as pretty today as you were yesterday, and tomorrow you'll be—"

"Hey, hey, change the record, or put on a soft needle," put in Peale good naturedly. Mary rewarded him with her approval.

"Quite right—in business hours only business," she said.

"But you certainly are the prettiest thing," persisted Rodney.

"Am I?" said Mary.

"Well," said Peale, "it looks to me as if you two were going to play another love scene, so I shall attend to a little business. Exit advertising manager up stage," he laughed, going out.

"By George, Mary, it seems a hundred years since yesterday. I do love you," Rodney began again, when they were alone.

"Do you really?"

"Why, of course!"

"It isn't that you're just in love with love," suggested Mary with a thoughtful look, "and that I've been very blue eyed and baby faced?"

"I should say not," protested Rodney. "Why, you're not a bit like that."

"Oh! Why do you love me, then?"

"I don't know."

"You see?" said Mary accusingly.

"I mean, why does anybody love anybody?" Rodney expounded. "I can't explain. It's just that you're you, I guess. I can't talk the way they do in books. I wish I could. All I know is that if you left here I'd quit too. I'd just want to walk around after you all the rest of my life and say, 'Are you comfortable, my love? Are you happy? If there is anything on the wide earth you want let me get it for you, Mary. What a wonderful name that is—just like you, simple and honest and beautiful. Mary!'"

How to Prevent Croup.

It may be a surprise to you to learn that in many cases croup can be prevented. Mrs. H. M. Johns, Elida, Ohio, relates her experience as follows: "My little boy is subject to croup. During the past winter I kept a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy in the house, and when he began having that croupy cough I would give him one or two doses of it and it would break the attack. I like it better for children than any other cough medicine because children take it willingly, and it is safe and reliable." Obtainable everywhere.

AMERICAN STEAMER SEIZED

Vigorous Protest Lodged With State Department Against Action.

Washington, Nov. 23.—Vigorous protest has been lodged at the state department against the action of the British crew which seized the American steamship Genesee and carried her into St. Lucia, British West Indies, with a prize crew on board.

The protest was in the form of a telegram from R. G. Wagner, of New York, president of the American Trans-Atlantic Steamship company which owns the Genesee. The same company owns the steamship Hocking, recently seized by a British man of war and carried to Halifax where she now is. United States Consul Livingstone at Barbadoes, cabled the department confirming the capture of the Genesee, which he reported, was taken while en route from Norfolk, Va., to Montevideo with a cargo of coal. The disposition of the state department is to permit both the Hocking and the Genesee cases to be disposed of in the British prize courts.

CAPT. BOY-ED CHARGED WITH CONNECTION IN BIG PLOT

Attachee of German Embassy is Named Directly by Assistant District Attorney Wood at Trial.

By United Press.

New York, November 23—Captain Boy-Ed, military attache, of the German embassy, was charged directly with activities in connection with the alleged Hamburg-American plot to supply German commerce raiders from American ports, when Assistant District Attorney Wood outlined the government's case today. Following the completion of the jury which is to try the four Hamburg-American officials on charges of conspiring to violate the neutrality of the United States, Wood said Boy-Ed claimed that he had a fund of $75,000 which had been deposited with the firm of Effen & Kullenkamp. $600,000 of the fund was sent to San Francisco for use on that coast, Wood said. One of the government witnesses has gone to Bermuda to escape giving testimony, it was learned today. Three other government witnesses are also missing.
